

Abstract

On Air list information or Now On Air information including program summaries such as the titles of radio programs, the broadcasting times and the cast (DJ) names of the radio programs and program details such as the titles of songs broadcasted in the radio programs and the broadcasting start times and artist names of the songs is obtained, and program table data PD is created based on the information. This can show a user a program table screen 300 based on the program table data PD including the summaries and details of the radio programs, so as to allow the user to select radio programs for recording. This means that much preferable radio programs can be selected for recording.